Re-Imagining Teacher Observation & Feedback: Reflective Creativity and Empowerment

Following the theme of the conference, this talk will focus on the merits of Teacher Observation and Feedback and on the possible ways the experience can become a way of reflective creativity for both the teacher and the observer, as well as a 'workshop' of critical thinking, empathy, empowerment and inspiration.

Intermingling activities

Re-Imagining ELT: Involve, Evolve, Inspire, Intermingle, Sing and Play

Lilika Couri and Suzanne Antonaros are inviting you on Friday to an evening of intermingling fun activities: we will share and exchange; we will act, sing, dance and play, but most important, we will connect, challenge and inspire each other.

Workshop: The Challenges of Non-EFL CLIL Teachers: the Strategic and Creative Power of EFL

A demonstration/workshop of the misconceptions and truths about non-EFL CLIL professionals. Subject teachers (science, history, geography, etc.) who teach CLIL are facing daily challenges and their saving factors are motivation and sound and inspiring EFL strategies, which become a CLIL teacher's guide and support. The creativity which permeates EFL, captivates non-EFL CLIL teachers and they learn to apply it to their own specific fields. Demonstrations of activities and short workshops.

Workshop: How to Present in An Inspiring Way

Teaching foreign languages and learning to use a number of interesting teaching materials, often motivates us to create our own original activities. There comes a time that we would like to present and share these activities with our colleagues. This workshop is addressed to those teachers who would like to be shown how to present their own work in an interesting, practical and motivating way.
